Hello, I am Chris, I've been doing freelance jobs as a graphic designer for about 7 years now acquiring clients online through various websites (like Upwork, Freelancer.com, Onlinejobs.ph, etc) and Social Media platforms like Facebook which generates most of the leads I have in the business. I have a lot of experience doing logos, posters, flyers, T-shirt designs, PowerPoint presentation templates and also web design layouts. I use Adobe Photoshop and Adobe Illustrator. I also do cartoon drawings doing freehand and making them as artwork to be applied in various purposes such as T-shirts and product labels. I am fast, well driven and passionate about my job as a freelancer and I am willing to take this journey to the next level. These are the things I love to do in the same way as my desire to help big companies.

HISTORY OF EXPERIENCE

>>>

DEDICATION:

Worked as a seafarer 3 years ago and quit that job to focus on freelance work as a graphic designer because I do layouts since college and this is the thing that I loved to do, which enough reason to quit my work on board even though it has a high paying rate and I was a scholar of that shipping company. I am confident with my skills because of my passion, and I enjoy doing this in the midst of stress and strains.

EXPERIENCE:

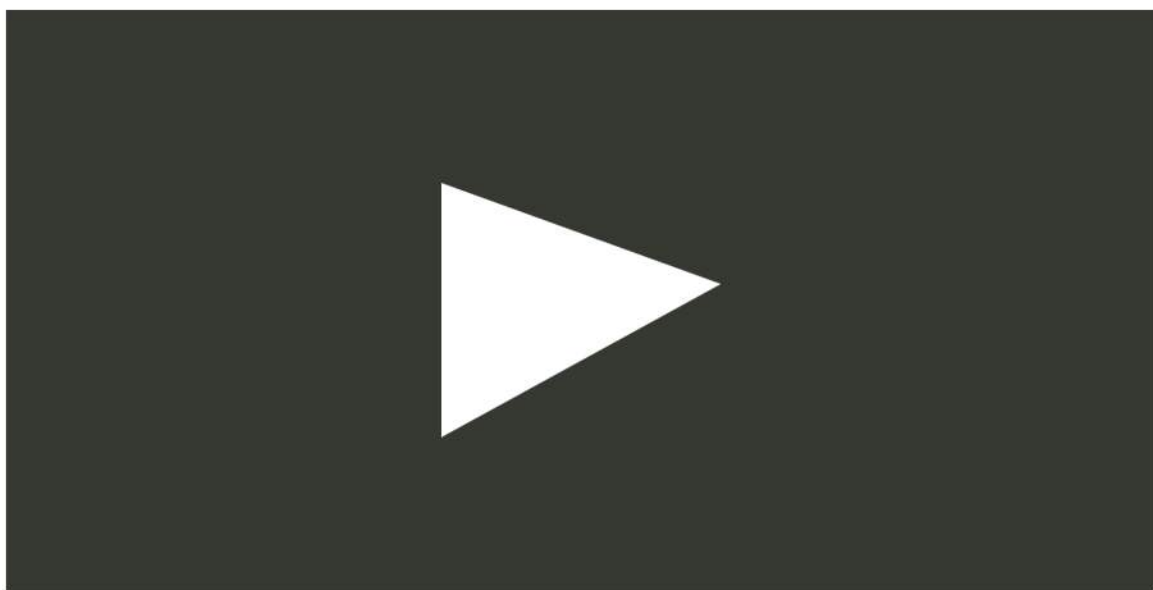

I began my passion in Graphic Design when I was a student creating slideshow presentations, doing church posters during the weekend, photo-editing as a hobby, blogging in social media and creating graphic works for school projects. I am a scholar of K-line Shipping Company during my college years and started my career as a seafarer 3 years after graduation. After that, I worked independently as a freelance graphic designer/artist beginning a new career path. Soon after that, I've had to realize that this new job gave me more fulfillment, significance, progress, professionalism, and productivity than my previous one. The first client I've had was a business owner of a milk tea franchise. Unfortunately, I wasn't able to get paid because I've had no Bank Account during that time and I was not able to provide the PSD file because I made it in Microsoft Powerpoint and Paint. Right after that point, I started watching different tutorials on Youtube which lead me into greater depths and wisdom not only in doing graphics but also in getting clients online. I also did some competitions on various websites including Freelancer.com and 99designs - this had served as my training ground so that my designs would stand out from the rest. I had learned to advertise my business on Facebook and online stores. After months of learning, I had finally get my first successful client engaged in Vape franchising whom I got my first pay. Months after that, my network grew rapidly partnering with different small and big business owners, most of them I acquired through Facebook crowdsourcing and Referrals. I have been making an average of 10 new International clients per month. Most of them had me working with short term contractual projects. Later on, I discovered this website Onlinejobs.ph where I met a few scammers but, surprisingly, it is where I get most of my long term business partners. Today, I'm still in this journey of helping more businesses that is why I build this website to find them. I also understand that more clients mean more management that is why I started a design firm partnering with other trusted designers.

STRENGTHS

I can finish multiple projects within the day for an average of 10 layout designs per day and I can be flexible in different styles and latest trends. I am competitive and dedicated with my job for it is m passion as well. Every work in detail is pleasure for me. I empathize clients in their needs and help them achieve their goals.

WEAKNESSES

Sometimes, I tend to become impatient whenever someone does not appreciate or misperceive my work or having multiple revisions without clarified instructions. I am very perfectionist when it comes to acquiring detail management and brief clarity.
